A DREADFUL END.

Louis Lingg, the Bomb Maker, Cheats the Gallows.

By Exploding a Fulminating Cap in his Mouth.

He Survives the Shock More than Five Hours.

How to Change the Instrument of Death a Mystery.

Lingg's Dreadful End.

CHICAGO, November 10.—Louis Lingg committed suicide in his cell this morning, exploding a dynamite cartridge in his mouth. How he secured the weapon with which the act was committed is a mystery as he was searched and his clothing taken away from him on Monday and Tuesday and the jailers and guards have watched him every minute. Lingg was regarded as the most desperate anarchist of the lot. It was he who manufactured the bombs for the Haymarket affair, and it was when one of the bombs he was making exploded in his room that he lost his left hand.

It is now learned that Lingg ended his life by means of a fulminating cap and not with a revolver as first stated. He held the cap in his mouth and lit it with a candle which was found in his cell. The explosion was the first warning the jail people had. The ringed steel ceiling with a candle in his hand supposed that he was lighting a cigar. From the effects of the explosion half his head was blown away.

Immediately after the explosion Deputy O'Neil rushed into Lingg's cell, which was completely enveloped in smoke. There he found the young anarchist lying on his back with great holes in his head from which the blood flowed in torrents. He was at once carried into the jail office and placed on a table. He was still breathing faintly, and while Dr. Gray was examining him he coughed slightly and blood poured forth again from his terrible wounds and from his mouth and nose. The physician said the sufferer could only live an hour or so at the most, and he expected his death every minute.

All day yesterday it was thought that Lingg acted differently from usual. Tuesday night he sat down and wrote a farewell address which was written for The Alarm, Parsons' old paper. In it he recites at length his grievances and closes as follows:

Now, with a last and earnest farewell to all friends and comrades, and with final wishes for their prosperity, I close with the view of certainty that I shall never have a chance of seeing you again. My last words unite with an earnest and hearty wish for your future success in life, your comrade, Hoch Die Anarchie.

LOUIS LINGG.

When Jailer Foltz made an examination of the cell, on the floor he found the shell of a fulminating cap. The sheriff said there had been undoubtedly dynamite in it. The supposition that the man put the shell in his mouth and deliberately applied the candle flame is undoubtedly correct. The explosion was terrific. It startled the officials, who thought it was a bomb, the noise was so great. The shell was so small as to allow the smuggling of it in jail with no trouble.

At 10:15, Dr. Gray, after further examination, found that the bones of the throat, neck and front of the jaw had been torn away. He administered stimulants but failed to arouse the man, yet the doctor states that there is a faint possibility that Lingg may yet live. Grannell says that in case he lives till to-morrow a way of escape for him at least will be open to granted.

How the dynamite was smuggled into the cell is not known, but it is generally believed that there is a traitor among the death watch who gave him the dynamite and cap. This is the theory of the chief of police.

CHICAGO, November 10.—Lingg presented a most horrible sight. The lower part of his jaw was completely torn off, and his black, auburn beard is matted with blood. Two locks were torn out and Lingg's own jagged pieces of his neck. The teeth were knocked out, the gums torn away and but a small stump of the tongue appeared protruding from the mangled mass. In the upper part of the throat, immediately under the lower part of the jaw bone, a terrible gap had been torn out from the inside. The left hand of the dead man with which he had touched off the explosive in his mouth, was torn open. The physicians charge how says that Lingg cannot recover from the terrible shock, and frankly confesses the man cannot live through the day.

When the explosion occurred all the anarchist prisoners were on their feet in an instant and very one looked stunned and frightened. Jailer Foltz at once gave orders to have every one's cell searched, and Parsons was the first one to whom the order was applied. When Engel was being searched he completely broke down and acted like a child and it was with the greatest difficulty that he was induced to go back into his cell.

The entire building was soon in an uproar, and the excitement was intense. To accomplish his morning's work with a small fulminating cap a little over an inch long. It had been filled with fulminate of mercury and the small fuse which is usually attached to these instruments of death had been touched off by Lingg at the time reported. It was thought he was lighting a cigar. When Lingg committed the deed he was lying on his face on his cot. After the affair, when his cell was searched, no other candle was found. At the top of it, barely concealed by the ends of the wick a second fulminating cap was found. Lingg's remains were taken charge of by undertaker Waldheim, who prepared them for burial. The body was placed in a handsome rosewood casket, and at 2 o'clock this afternoon was taken to the undertaking establishment of Graceland cemetery, where it was cremated. The ashes will be placed in an urn and will be kept by the undertaker for a few days, when they will be delivered to Lingg's friends.

Orders to Troops.

CHICAGO, November 10.—What precautions have you made against possible trouble as the result of to-morrow's execution?" asked a reporter of General Fitzsimmons.

The command is replied: "I do not anticipate trouble. However, any trouble that may occur will be met effectually, I think. My police and the lieutenants of the First and Second regiments."

"Do you realize the necessity for sufficient action on the part of the police of troops continued the general, "for if these wretched creatures of law and order give us cause for action there will be such a display as has been extended them on the past?"

"Oh, yes," was the quick reply, and the eyes of the officer lit up in order to give it.

"We have no blank cartridges issued for the Parsons and will not for Lingg's execution."

Many companies have been notified to be on the lookout for signaling, west orders have been issued to United States troops now at Highland. Accordingly a message was received this afternoon at Major Bracken's office, Fort Sheridan, from Major Brackett, commanding the Second battalion of the Fifteenth infantry, which has been ordered to Highland, and with the exception of Company A, which will remain at Fort Sheridan, will be the only troops to be stationed at Highland. The message stated that the battalion would arrive at Highland at 2 o'clock this afternoon. Major Brackett will report to Colonel Bracken for instructions.

Appeal of the Public.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., November 10.—The announcement of the governor's decision in the anarchist case spread like wildfire this morning and the greatest excitement naturally prevailed. Much speculation has been indulged in during the day, and even now the impression has been created that the sentence of Parsons would be changed to imprisonment for life. The governor's mail this morning was unusually heavy, and contained petitions from all parts of the state, asking executive clemency for Parsons. Many of the petitions were signed by the leading citizens of the state, and contained strong arguments in favor of commutation of sentence. Governor Oglesby has been besieged by prominent people in behalf of Parsons, and it is known that he has given the matter much thought. It is generally believed that he will grant a respite of thirty days, which will be sufficient time for the Supreme court to render a decision on the motion for a new trial. Governor Oglesby has been in consultation with Judge Tuley, of Chicago, who presided at the trial of the anarchists, and it is believed that he will be governed largely by the opinion of Judge Tuley. The Anarchy Movement.

CHICAGO, November 10.—The governor has commuted the sentence of Fielden and Schwab to imprisonment for life. All the others must hang.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., November 10.—The decision of the governor was announced in front of the executive office at 2 o'clock, this morning by the private secretary of the governor. Following is the governor's decision in full:

"STATE OF ILLINOIS, EXECUTIVE OFFICE, SPRINGFIELD, Nov. 10, 1887.

On the 20th day of August last, in the Cook county criminal court, August Spies, Albert R. Parsons, Samuel Fielden, Michael Schwab, Adolph Fischer, George Engel and Louis Lingg were found guilty by verdict of the jury and sentenced to be hanged by the neck until dead, on the 2nd day of December next. Appeals were taken from such sentence to the supreme court of this state, and the cases were duly heard by that court upon full briefs and arguments of counsel, and the judgment of the circuit court in each case now comes before me for executive action. The defendants Parsons, Adolph Fischer, George Engel, Albert R. Parsons and Louis Lingg, I regret to say that under a solemn sense of the obligations of my office I have been unable to do so.

[Signed] RICHARD J. OGLESBY,
Governor.

Scenes in the Jail.

CHICAGO, November 10.—When the news of the commutation of the sentence of Fielden and Schwab was received at the jail there was even more than the ordinary scene of activity. The news was sent to the relatives of the condemned men and in a short time they began to arrive at the jail. The first of the women to come was Mrs. Schwab. Soon after Schwab was taken to the jail office, where he met his wife. The meeting was a most affecting one. Both were overcome with grief, and for a few minutes could not speak. Schwab became deeply depressed. He walked up and down the cell with his head on his breast. Engel and Parsons refused to talk to their wives, but were evidently almost overwhelmed by the ordeals.

Capt. Black's Efforts.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., November 10.—It is learned that Capt. Black has wired Schilling to be in Springfield as he (Black) will leave here in the morning at 9 o'clock to appear before the governor and make a plea in the case of Parsons on the ground that the latter is insane and has been for many months, and is liable to spend life for his actions. He will also make a plea for Spies and all, but for all the condemned men. Certain it is that Black will arrive in the morning and if such thing has occurred as to cause him and join in the pleas to governor. Schilling was approached by the associated press reporter to-night, but positively refused to be interviewed or even have questions whatever relating to the matter. He did not deny the authenticity of the report.

Writ of Habeas Corpus Denied.

CHICAGO, November 10.—Attorney Solomon appeared before Judge Tuley this afternoon and made his application for a writ of habeas corpus in behalf of A. R. Parsons. His points were that the process was void the record saying the defendant was present when he was absent. He claimed that the order of the court directing the execution of the murderers on November 11 was unconstitutional and void inasmuch as such final process must read, "In the name of the people of the state of Illinois." He read many decisions in support of his point. One of Mr. Solomon's main points was that the Illinois supreme court should have returned the case to the lower court where the sentence should have again been pronounced. Neglect to do this, he argued, was a fatal error. The writ was refused by Judge Tuley.

The Last Night.

CHICAGO, November 10.—Shortly after 7 o'clock Sheriff Matson came to the jail. His mission was two fold. He wanted to give personal notice to Spies, Fischer, Engel and Parsons that they would have to suffer the extreme penalty of the law. He also wanted to see that his deputies were placed where all unauthorized people should be kept from the vicinity. When the sheriff went into the cell room he was accompanied by Deputies Prince, Turner and Gilpin. The quarters struck by the cell room about twenty minutes. The sheriff would only say that none of the condemned men showed any signs of breaking down.

It was at 7:25 o'clock that Rev. Dr. Dixon of the Fifth Methodist church called on Parsons. He was closeted about fifteen minutes and left, as he said, Parsons was in the spirit to suffer more if he could.

At 10 o'clock Spies, Fischer, Engel and Lingg were taken from the cells in which they had been farewell to their relatives, and conducted to their cells. These were soon closely guarded. An officer stood in front of each barred door. Inside the cell of each prisoner was a table on which a candle was placed, outside and on the way a lamp, thus giving the guards an opportunity to watch the movements of each prisoner.

Mrs. Lucy Parsons created a sensation in the crowd near building about 10 o'clock. She walked down Market street to the main entrance and was about to make to the hallway by small grounds she had with her baby (Lulu). At reaching the door she demanded permission to see her husband. This was denied her by a deputy sheriff, who was acting under orders. "But I must see my husband," exclaimed Mrs. Parsons. "Yes, I must," was the firm reply. Then the pretty wife of the anarchist threw up her hands and left to conceal her face in a veil. It took over twenty minutes to bring her composure again, but when she was done she was herself from the building. Parsons was informed of the episode.

The erection of the scaffold began at 10 o'clock. The first intimation that the newspaper men had of it was the falling of a heavy board. Then carpenters and the right hand pockets of their baggy overalls, which to the eyes of the experienced were filled with revolvers. Orders were given forbidding the erection of anyone not connected with the press or the sheriff's office. Then some of the deputies went to see to legal matters directed to do.

Mr Balfour says she will make the Irish as thoroughly loyal before he gets through. If he does, there will not be many Englishmen left to parade of Leister.

The republican papers of Denver did not seem to have any use for their leaders Wednesday morning. Yet the victory was a very great one considering the effort to divide the party strength. The republican ticket was only successful because it was a good ticket.

Governor Ogilvie in commuting the sentences of Fielden and Schwab was actuated by the feeling that the degree of their guilt was not so great as that of the other condemned men. The recommendations of Judge Gary and Attorney Grinnell also had great weight in bringing the governor to this conclusion. The general opinion also seemed to be more favorable to these two men than to the remaining five.

The New York Herald gives the following description of Louis Lingg, who committed suicide yesterday:

The first who appeared was Louis Lingg. The appearance of the man is remarkable. Tall, erect, of splendid physique, with broad shoulders, with long, powerful arms, this Lingg and Harker, he passed the stone flags for a few minutes with lengthy strides, which expressed the movements of a tiger watching for a moment to spring upon his prey. Lingg is fearfully manly looking. Fearfully handsome. Fearfully fearless. Fraught with danger in his extraordinary of manly beauty to women and men alike. Scarcely is it a wonder that young women flock to the jail to gaze on the fierce communist and tender him presents as tokens of their sentimental regard or interest.

His face is fully typical of that of a mature by Praxiteles. Bellenic features, a straight nose, a perfect mouth, a high, broad, white forehead and a luxuriant growth of a rich, warm, auburn-hued hair, strongly suggestive of the Bavarian type. Looking of Mrs. Langtry, are among the physiognomical items of this remarkable prisoner. Yet wealth of the jail cannot, with go without a coat, but his attire was neat and the bright scarlet neck scarf tied in a sailor's knot is emblematic of the color of the world's views on all subjects, social and political. Born in Baden, Lingg came to America charged with the extreme communistic theories of Proudhon and Bakunin, who believed it a duty to destroy all constitutional authority by insurrection or any violent means the most convenient. He is well educated, although possessing but a limited knowledge of the English tongue. He has been the most daring and reckless of all the armed group of revolutionary communists who have terrorized Chicago by its threats and menaces. A pale-colored pall added to his swarthiness almost her face. Occasionally and in great low whispered words to the one of the handsome prisoner placed on the next room of the opposite side.

The committee managing the campaign of the personal liberty party in New York was far wiser than the prohibition committee. It did not propose to throw any votes away by having independent candidates for the legislature, so it sent out the following circular:

STATE ORGANIZATION OF GERMAN-AMERICAN SOCIETY FOR THE DEFENCE OF PERSONAL LIBERTY.
New York, October —, 1887.

Dear Sir: Having been informed that you are a candidate for assembly or senator in the — district, we, the undersigned Executive Committee of our organization, beg leave to submit to you the enclosed platform, and kindly ask you to send to the address of the subjoined secretary of our committee within three days your answer whether you are in favor of the same and pledge yourself to work for our views in the coming legislature. Yesterday afternoon about one o'clock, Mr. C. E. Noble received a telegram from Mr. J. F. Peebles from Granger, stating that the manager of the employes of the Big Springs Live Stock Company had killed himself by cutting his throat with a revolver. Mr. Peebles asked Mr. Noble to inform Colonel Davis of the affair, and direct him to come up to the Big Springs ranch and take charge of the body. No particulars concerning the circumstances of the affair were given in the dispatch but Mr. Noble inferred to the opinion that it was accidental. The man had been working for the company only a short time and had lately been living in Canon City and Leadville. Colonel Davis came up from Manitou yesterday afternoon and left for the Big Springs ranch on the evening train. Colonel Davis was acquainted with the man who committed the act and the latter will take place at the present town of the deceased.
